This transformative practice fits into and is completely supportive of modern life; no prior skill or belief is needed, it is highly accessible to all. The process is natural; we sit close our eyes and effortlessly locate the core of our being, our highest freedom.

Joyce studied with Paul Muller-Ortega, international meditation scholar, for eight years prior to being authorized to offer initiation into this powerful life enhancing practice. Joyce first explored meditation through her personal yoga practice; became an expert yoga instructor and discovered her most profound skills lie in sharing the benefits of yoga and meditation with others. But it was not until she herself was initiated in Neelakantha Meditation that she found a profoundly life changing practice. Since 2008 Joyce has steeped deeply in daily practice and dedicated study of the Kashmir Shaivite Svatantra tradition becoming one of the first Authorized Instructors of Neelakantha Meditation and is excited and honored to share the profound benefits she has experienced with others.
